

26th August 2013

To all the special people in my life:

I would like to express my deepest appreciation for everyone that somehow got involved on my case. A special thanks to my pastor Jimmy Hart who together with his church, The Eagle's Nest, has accepted me with opened arms and has helped me financially and spiritually when I needed most. Special thanks to the McClaskey family, who sheltered me when I didn't have anywhere else to go. Thanks for all the emotional support I got from the, A Hand to Hold, group. Thanks to my attorney John E. Lynch for all his help and hard work. Thanks to the Douglas County Attorney Don Kleine and his team who have bent backwards to help us solve this horrific crime. Thanks to the Omaha police, specially Sgt. Negron and her team. Also, much thanks to all the judges involved in this case. I should not forget to thank the diver, Mr. Kevin Young, who miraculously found my brother's remains in the Missouri River under such harsh conditions. I also would like to thank my wonderful husband Marcos Beppler and my beautiful son Eric Beppler for being by my side and for enduring all the pain with me. I must thank all my supportive family in Brazil and also thank the small community of Brazilians living in Omaha, which has helped tremendously my family and I. And to some special ones who I consider more than friends, I consider as family, they know who they are. Thank God for all the wonderful people who has crossed my way.

Today is a mark of a new beginning for my family and I. Justice has been served. I have nothing but respect and admiration for the American people and its court system. May God bless us all.

Sincerely,

Tatiane Klein
